Elephants and jeeps are no longer the only modes of regulated transport to call on the rhino in the Kaziranga National Park and Tiger Reserve, billed as the best-conserved home of the one-horned animal.

The park can now be explored by boats while bicycle tracks are also being finalised. One can go trekking too. But the new activities are beyond the 1,302 sq km Kaziranga's core area of 482 sq km.

Rare Myristica swamp treefrog found in Thrissur

The arboreal species, endemic to the Western Ghats, was spotted in the Vazhachal forest in 2018

S. ANIL RADHAKRISHNAN
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Myristica swamp treefrog, a rare arboreal species endemic to the Western Ghats that bears the scientific name Mercurana myristicapalustris, has been recorded for the first time north of the Shencottah gap in the Vazhachal Reserve Forest in Kerala's Thrissur district.

The call of these frogs was identified during an exploration study by Sujith V. Gopalan, research scholar, University College, Thiruvananthapuram, near the road at Sukthae pocket swamp in the Vazhachal forest division in 2018.

The exploration study lasted two years and the recording has been published in the December issue of Reptiles & Amphibians, an international journal dedicated to the studies of amphibians and reptiles.

"It was interesting to discover a group of adult male Mercurana myristicapalustris frogs calling from low perches in a swamp. Unlike the Myristica swamp treefrog found in the foothills of the Agasthyamalai, these frogs were found to be active throughout June and early July and has adapted to a non-Myristica swamp predominant with the plant polyalthia fragrans," says Mr. Gopalan.

The frog was first spotted in 2013 in the Myristica swamps of Aripa, near the Kulathupuzha Reserve Forest, in the western foothills of Agasthyamalai, in Kollam district. The current species was spotted by Mr. Gopalan 170 km north of Aripa.

Unique trait

These frogs are rare and elusive for the reason that they are arboreal and active only for a few weeks during their breeding season.

During this season, there is a large aggregation of males that descend from the high canopy of the trees. The males vocalise in groups from the low perches in the swamps. They exhibit unique breeding behaviour, says Mr. Gopalan. The breeding season, unlike for other frogs, starts in the pre-monsoon season (May) and ends before the monsoon becomes fully active in June.

Before the end of the breeding season, the female frogs along with their male counterparts descend on the forest floor. The female digs the mud and lays eggs in shallow burrows in mud. After breeding and egg-laying, they retreat back to the high canopies of the tree and remain elusive till next breeding season.

Extended distribution of such rare frogs in the Western Ghats have conservation implications and provide a suitable niche for further studies on the diverse amphibian fauna of the Ghats, says Sanil George, scientist E-II, Rajiv Gandhi Centre for Biotechnology, Thiruvananthapuram, and D.A. Evans, former associate professor, University College, Thiruvananthapuram, who have co-authored the article along with Mr. Gopalan.

National Space Administration statement.

A successful landing in Inner Mongolia would make China only the third country to have retrieved lunar samples after the United States and the Soviet Union. The plan was to collect 2 kg (4.4 lbs) of samples, although it has not been disclosed how much was actually gathered.

The Chang'e-5 was launched on Nov. 24 and a lander vehicle touched down on the moon on Dec. 1. The mission was expected to take around 23 days in total. (Reporting by Tom Daly; Editing by Alex Richardson)
