'Government is yet to decide on use of surplus funds transferred by RBI'

Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman said on Friday that while the government will look into any challenges being faced by the economy, it will not allow Budgetary allocations to the social sector to be affected.

She said this in response to a query on whether tax targets would be met in the wake of economic slowdown.

Ms. Sitharaman, who was accompanied by the Revenue Secretary and the CBDT Chairman, said as part of an initiative to improve transparency, any notice issued by the Income Tax Department for tax claims from October 1 will have a distinct document identification number (DIN). This will be issued through a centralised process and with approval.

“We are adopting technology to make the process non-discretionary and transparent, she said.
