

DIGI PAGE

Android O - Beta Version

Google has launched the beta version of its new operating system 'Android O'. Google's Android operating system is being used in over two billion devices worldwide.

According to the company, the final version of this OS will be released by the end of this year. Also, old bugs, including giving several new features, will also be reduced.

Many work together

Two things can be done together with the help of Picture in Picture Features of Android O, without any hassle.

As you can see the calendar, you can also make a video call on Duo. It also improved the copy-paste from smart text selection.

According to Google, Android OS will work faster on reducing battery consumption.

There has also been a new feature for Notification Dot Developer. Under this feature, the user cannot be notified about the activities on the app.

This is the beta version

Let us know that the beta version is a version launched before the formal launch of any app, website or operating system.

In this, the company takes feedback from people through testers in which if a user gets a bug, then it is improved. After this, his final version is released.